

ABSTRACT

An electroluminescent (EL) device having a substrate with a light-emitting portion and a sealing member. The sealing member seals the light-emitting portion from the surrounding air.

A groove accommodating a sealant is formed in at least one of seal portions of the substrate and 5 the sealing member.